

LOCAL BOUNTY

IMAGES FROM RHODE ISLAND FARMS, FIELDS,
WATERS AND KITCHENS FROM edible RHODY

SATURDAYS
11:00 A.M. – 2:00 P.M.

JANUARY 16 –
FEBRUARY 27

Wintertime Farmers'
Market in Pawtucket

You have only to walk around the Wintertime Farmers' Market in Pawtucket to see the beauty in a pile of Macomber turnips, a tray of Matunuck oysters, or bundles of leeks. Even in winter the abundance is stunning, the visual appeal undeniable.

But it takes the eye of a professional photographer to capture the essence of our good fortune. Good light helps—but as you'll see in this exhibit, there is much more to it than that. A tray of cherry tomatoes can be a pretty picture, or it can become a symbol of the farmer's unseen role in planting, growing, harvesting, and boxing the tomatoes for us.

In this exhibit, we've brought together images from local waters, fields and vineyards, as well as pictures of food artists and artisans, from bread bakers to chefs in celebration of Rhode Island's local bounty. Edible Rhody is proud to share them with you.

Wintertime Farmers' Market in Pawtucket
Hope Artiste Village
1005 Main St., Pawtucket, RI

The exhibit, Local Bounty, is brought to you thanks to United Natural Foods. UNFI is the leading natural and organic distributor in the United States, which emphasizes sustainable agriculture, social responsibility, and stewardship of the land while reducing their ecological footprint.

edible RHODY®

Celebrating the Bounty of Rhode Island, Season by Season
Edible Rhody is a member of Edible Communities.