VERMONT GMO LABELING LAW VENDOR SURVEY

VERMONT GMO LABELING LAW

Vermont's GE (Genetic Engineering) Food Labeling Law, Act 120 and CP 121, becomes effective for food sold after July 1, 2016. Under this law, manufacturers are required to label any packaged food sold by Vermont retailers if it contains Genetically Modified Organisms. This legislation is complex, and there are numerous unanswered questions. Currently, there is legislation being considered in Washington that would, in effect, negate the Vermont GMO Labeling Law, but at this time, the Vermont law will go into effect July 1, 2016.

There is a great deal of information we need to communicate to our customers, and your feedback and input is critical in this communication. Please take a few minutes to provide the following information

If you are unable to provide a Sworn Statement because your product(s) are produced with GMO ingredients, please provide AG New England with a list of those items and your plan/timeline for labeling these products to ensure Vermont GMO Labeling compliance.
